

HATAMOTO®

Building better business resilience

“ In feudal Japan, the ruling warlord or ‘Shogun’ initiated an ancient form of business resilience by maintaining a battlefield strategy known as Senjo. The most coveted position was the HATAMOTO, the Shogun’s most trusted retainer and advisor ”

Is your business geared up to adapt and respond swiftly to emerging threats, disruptions, demands or opportunities, whilst maintaining critical operations?

In challenging economic and regulatory times, many organisations are only now realising the importance of building business resilience. Nowadays, businesses are guided by tightening legislative frameworks enacted by governments concerned with maintaining public confidence in their planning, preparation, response to and recovery from potential incidents and crises.

HATAMOTO fills this need by providing consultancy services and specialist advice in the field of Business Resilience with a focus on the Aviation, Critical Infrastructure, Energy, Government, Hospitality, Major Events, Maritime and Mass Passenger Transport sectors.

We work as a fully outsourced security and risk management department, an integrated part of your team or on a project by project basis. Either way our focus is on providing impartial advice often at the most critical moments of an organisations’ existence: during a crisis.

Our extensive operational experience in security and risk management guarantees we understand the competing priorities of regulatory compliance versus commercial competitiveness and profitability and are committed to providing clients with a cost-effective solution in a timely manner.

OUR SERVICES INCLUDE

- Risk management
- Plans, policies and procedures (P3)
- Project management
- Planning, capability development & management
- Probity advice
